RESTRAINING ORDERS

How do I obtain a restraining order?

A restraining order may be obtained through a private attorney or you may obtain one without an attorney at the Shasta County Clerk's Office at 1500 Court Street, Redding, CA.

Are there filing costs?

For most domestic violence and sexual assault victims, there are no filing or service fees. However, there may be some exceptions.

A restraining order may provide relief for any of the following:

Stay Away Orders: The abuser may be ordered to leave the residence. The abuser may be restrained from contacting the victim and other family members at their residence, school, business, or places of employment.

Child Custody Orders: An order awarding the victim or other parent custody of minor children and restraining the abuser from molesting or interfering with minor children in custody of the victim. An order directing the party not granted custody to pay support of minor children, if that party has a legal obligation to do so.

Financial Obligations: An order directing the abuser to make specified debt payments which are due while the order is in effect.

Counseling Orders: An order directing that either or both parties participate in counseling. Victims will not be ordered to counseling in a criminal case.

In addition, victims of domestic violence have the right to file a civil suit against the abuser for losses suffered as a result of the abuse, including medical expenses, loss of earnings, and other expenses for injuries sustained and damage to property, and any other related expenses incurred by the victim or any agency that shelters the victim.
